EDUCATION

I'm a self-motivated media professional who completed secondary education up to Grade 12 but chose to pause formal studies to pursue my passion and strengths in graphic design and motion graphics. In Kurdistan, I found that no college offered specialized programs in the areas I was most interested in, and although I knew there were media and communication colleges, they did not provide the practical learning I needed in graphic design and motion graphics. I've developed hands-on skills and professional experience through independent projects, video editing, motion design, digital media work, and motion graphics, combining creativity and technical expertise to deliver high-quality, engaging content.
